It was at the conclusion of one of the most stirring of recent days in Congress, and after votes on several amendments that the final vote was reached. Representative Hobson had closed the general debate, perticipated in by all the house leaders.

Although advocates of the resolution predicted it would receive a majority vote, many of them, including Mr. Hotson conceded that it would not receive two-thirds necessary for passage.

Before the roll call began Representative Hobson presented an amendment to his resolution authorizing "Congress and the States concurrently" to enforce the prohibition provision by "needful legislaton." It was adopted without division. Immediately after announcement of the votes the house adjourned, the crowd that had packed the galleries throughout the prologed debate dispersing with hingled oxpressions or regret and jubiliation.

Prohibition leaders declared the vote of 197 for the resolution had come up to their expectations, as they had not expected a two-thirds majority. Whether a similar resolution submitted by Senator Shoppard, of Texas, would reach a vote in the senate at this season was not certain tonight. Administration leaders were inclined to believe it would not, because it too believe it would not pass the house.

Two Families in Mill Village Are in Need of Immediate Assis-

The editorial in yesterday's Intelli-gencer calling attention to the plight of a destitute family in one of the cotion mill villages was productive of much good, or rather it was responsi-ble for several kind hearted people of the city volunteering aid for the poor widow and her two fever-stricken children and the third little fellow who bravely went to work in the mill and came home at noon to find not a morsel of food in the house to allay the pangs of hunger.

Pinds Family Destitute.

A kind hearted lady of the city called at The Intelligencer office yesterday morning and inquired as to where this family could be found. She and her sister visited the miserable home and carried food enough to succor the hungry family for a short while. In speaking of this matter last right this lady stated that she found the family to be in deplorable circumstances. There was no food of any kind in the house, the mother had no money, there was little if any fuel on the premises, and two of the children were down with typhold fever. Discovers Second Family.

While visiting this family, the lady said, she discovered another family in the same mill village in circumstances equally deplorable. There is a girl in the family who is ill with pelagra and it is thought that her mind has become impaired. In this household become impaired. In this household it was stated, the ghost of povert, stalks as fearfully as in the home. The widow referred to, it was by the lady, received a cow from son who lives in the country. But the cow is all but useless to the poor widow, for she has no food for the ant ow, for she has no food for the animal. Yesterday she sent to a nearby store to get some meal and hulls for the cow, but was denied the same because she did not have the money to pay for the food. Having a cow and having no food for the animal and no money with which to get it it was money with which to get it, it was stated, is worse than ever, because it brings suffering to another, though it is a dumb brute.
